

Atlanticville Long Branch, NJ

Explosive found at Broadway business site

LONG BRANCH — A hand grenade was found in the rear of an uptown Broadway business last week by two landscaping workers, according to reports.

On Aug. 17 at 8:30 a.m., two subjects operating a pickup truck informed officers that they found the hand grenade while working, and had put the object in the back of their truck, according to reports.

The truck was guided to an isolated location within the parking lot of city hall on Broadway, and an Explosive Ordinance Disposal (EOD) unit was deployed from Fort Monmouth, according to reports.

The device was examined by the unit and was found to be safe and inactive, according to police reports.

The grenade was then taken by the EOD officers for disposal.

Taken from: http://atlanticville.gmnews.com/news/2005/0825/Front_Page/011.html